FIAT LUX! “Let there be light,” the motto for the University of California, is the guiding ideal for UC Santa Cruz. This report contains examples of ways that faculty, staff, alumni, students, and volunteers are bringing the light of understanding to the task of building a better world.

Unlocking the mysteries of the human genome and applying this new knowledge to improve our health. Animating the human spirit through the arts. Preserving and transmitting the insights of literature. Ensuring access to a university education for our brightest young scholars. These are only some of the ways that UC Santa Cruz enlightens through research, teaching, and service.

As a public university, UC Santa Cruz receives some funding from the state of California. But we are only state-assisted, with less than half of our operating costs derived from state support.

Because of this, we rely upon other sources of financial support to accomplish our work. Private philanthropic gifts from foundations, alumni, parents, and other friends are essential.

On behalf of the extended UC Santa Cruz family, I offer heartfelt thanks to our generous benefactors, and I applaud the exceptional work of the volunteers who help us in countless ways. At the same time, I invite you to share my pride in the accomplishments that distinguish UC Santa Cruz.

If you do not already enjoy a place among our ever-widening circle of donors and friends, please join us. Without your generous gifts of time and money, we will be unable to meet fully our commitment to keep bright the light of learning.

From the President of the Foundation

AS I WATCH MY GRANDCHILDREN GROW, I am inspired to make a difference. There's no better way to be involved in the future of both young people and the Santa Cruz community than serving on the Foundation Board.

Beginning my tenure as president of the Foundation, I first want to thank my predecessor, Paul Irwin, for his hard work over the past two years. I am also grateful to Chancellor M.R.C. Greenwood for her dynamic leadership, and I look forward to continuing the close working relationship she has established with the Foundation.

I'm pleased to report that even in these uncertain financial times, we received record annual giving to the campus, increased scholarship and fellowship funds to help our students, added much-needed endowed chairs to attract the best faculty, and increased endowments to enrich the University Library's collections.

We are building a campus for the 21st century—a place where our children and grandchildren can receive the education they will need to meet the challenges of a world we haven't even imagined.

I hope the stories and profiles you read here inspire you as they have me. It is your generosity and commitment that create opportunities for our faculty and students and help transform lives.

Thank you.

Supporting Roles

QUOTES FROM SHAKESPEARE flow from Joe Denicola's tongue like youthful hip-hop slang. Toby Alexander discusses her love of the genius's work alongside her love of hockey and baseball. Alexander and Denicola are among the 31 volunteer board members of Shakespeare Santa Cruz (SSC), which celebrated its 20th season this year. She serves as president, and he serves as co-vice president and chair of the Fund Development Committee.

Though neither is a California native nor UC Santa Cruz alum, both volunteer out of lifelong interests in theater, education, and community. A retired math teacher, Alexander enthuses, "Shakespeare Santa Cruz is one of the jewels of Santa Cruz. This is something that you wouldn't normally find in a small community like ours. This is world-class theater. It's really incredible!"

Denicola, a clinical psychologist and literature aficionado, is ebullient: "I believe in the power of theater to change people's lives. . . . Shakespeare Santa Cruz makes Shakespeare accessible and relevant to people today."

Thanks to dedicated volunteers like Alexander and Denicola, SSC remains on an upward trajectory. Drawing multigenerational audiences of children, hipsters, baby boomers, and seniors, performances have garnered praise locally and regionally.

Volunteers raise funds for Shakespeare Santa Cruz

In 2000, over 40,000 tickets were sold.

To ensure that SSC continues to grow in size and artistic excellence, the board escalated its fundraising efforts. Under Denicola and Alexander's leadership, the board spread awareness about the quality and needs of its professional theater company.

The result? Phenomenal success. In both 1999 and 2000, the board surpassed its goals by approximately 20 percent, raising $263,873 and $295,000, respectively. During that period, the board successfully campaigned for a $50,000 endowment for the Sinsheimer-Stanley Festival Glen. Denicola spearheaded the Team Biz program to recruit over 100 small and midsize business sponsors; Coast Commercial Bank has underwritten this program for the past four years. This year's economic slowdown is no deterrent—the board aims to raise $300,000.

"Our success is due to individual donors, both large and small, and corporations. We also have fun working together," Alexander says. "I've been very fortunate throughout my life and was raised to believe in philanthropy. People have a responsibility to be part of their community and to give to the world."

At the Edge of Knowing

UCSC plays critical role in the Human Genome Project

“T ALL STARTED HERE,” said Francis Collins, director of the National Human Genome Research Institute, speaking before a capacity crowd at UCSC’s Human Genome Symposium 2001. In his keynote address, Collins recognized the “absolutely critical role” of UCSC researchers in assembling the genome sequence, as well as their ongoing contributions to the Human Genome Project. He noted, “Without the computational work of David Haussler and graduate student Jim Kent, we would not have seen the genome emerge in the way I can tell you about here.”

Haussler is a professor of computer science at UCSC, director of the Center for Biomolecular Science and Engineering (CBSE), and a leader in the field of bioinformatics. Kent, who developed the computer program used to assemble the human genome sequence, is a Ph.D. candidate in UCSC’s Molecular, Cell, and Developmental Biology Department.

UCSC’s leadership began in 1985 when Robert Sinsheimer, noted biologist and then-chancellor of UCSC, convened a select group of scientists to discuss a radical proposition: Would it be possible to map the complete DNA sequence of the human genome? As the talks progressed, Sinsheimer later recalled, “the mood of the participants swung from extreme skepticism to confidence in the feasibility of the program.”

That gathering planted the seed for the Human

Genome Project, which completed a working draft of the genome in June 2000—an achievement that promises dramatic advances in the diagnosis and treatment of disease. UCSC researchers are now applying this information to groundbreaking work applicable to human health.

At the UCSC Human Genome Symposium 2001, participants from the historic 1985 meeting and other eminent scientists gathered to discuss the future of this rapidly developing field, summary results of which will be published soon. Collins spoke at a public forum that featured a panel discussion with Sinsheimer; Collins; Eugene Myers, vice president of Celera Genomics; and Mary-Claire King, professor of medicine and genetics at the University of Washington. Richard Harris of National Public Radio, a UCSC graduate, served as moderator.

The symposium was the brainchild of UC Santa Cruz Foundation trustee Arthur Graham, a longtime campus benefactor and Sinsheimer’s roommate at MIT. Says Graham: “The goal of the symposium was to celebrate Bob Sinsheimer’s vision and to commemorate UCSC’s primordial role in the Human Genome Project.” Recognizing a lifetime of achievement, UC President Richard C. Atkinson presented Sinsheimer with the UC Presidential Medal during the symposium.

UCSC’s latest assembly of the human genome is available online at genome.ucsc.edu.

Giving Something Back

Alumni devote company funds to scholarship

JOHN GAMMAN (Crown '74) and Scott McCreary (Crown '76) have found fulfillment on the battlefield of environmental disputes: as peacemakers and mediators who bring warring factions together and help them reach agreements. "It's our life's work," says Gamman, who co-founded CONCUR, Inc., an environmental mediation firm, with McCreary in 1987.

McCreary and Gamman credit their undergraduate education at UCSC for much of the success they've had as environmental mediators. The education they received gave them a thorough understanding of the issues underlying environmental disputes.

Now, McCreary and Gamman want to give other UC Santa Cruz students a helping hand into the field. With a gift of $10,000, the two have established the CONCUR, Inc., Endowed Scholarship Fund. Having succeeded in this field, McCreary and Gamman hope the scholarship will serve the needs of environmentally minded students through the years.

"We want to help students get the same quality experience we got at UCSC as undergraduates," says Gamman. "If we can provide some assistance to an outstanding student each year, that would be a very meaningful contribution for us."

Starting in 2001–02, the fund will begin awarding an annual $500 scholarship to a student in the Environmental Studies Department. The scholarship will be awarded based on academic merit and a demonstrated interest in environmental dispute resolution.

"A lot of undergraduates are trying to find their path," says McCreary. "They might be struggling financially. It's a time when assistance might make a real difference."

In their work, Gamman and McCreary certainly make a difference. In mediations involving public policy, endangered species, and economic development, public health and safety are at stake—not to mention hundreds of millions of dollars. Passions run deep, and opposing sides are often angry at the beginning of the process.

After six months to a year of mediation, groups often reach a moment McCreary describes as transformative. "They cross a bridge from representing only their own narrow interests to making decisions based on the interests of many," says McCreary; "it is satisfying to be a part of that." The company has reached agreements in about 90 percent of its cases.

CONCUR's recent projects include facilitating cleanup of America's largest on-land oil spill in San Luis Obispo; helping design flood-control plans for the Guadalupe River in San Jose and the American River in Sacramento; and assisting CALFED—a partnership between the state of California and the federal government—to reach agreements to help resolve California's long-standing water-supply problems.

Securing Literature's Future

Joseph H. Silverman Memorial Fellowship makes first award

June Chavez Silverman and Joseph H. Silverman in 1986

ON THE SECOND FLOOR of the library by the window is Joseph Silverman's book collection," said graduate student and fellowship recipient David Dabaco (B.A., literature, '95). "He had one of the most incredible libraries of books—spectacular, rare, and first editions. Students can open these books and see the handwritten margin notes of famous scholars like Américo Castro!"

Professor Silverman, who taught Spanish literature from 1967 until his death in 1989 and was provost at Stevenson College (1974–81), donated to the University Library 7,000 volumes on classic Spanish literature. After his passing, his widow, June Chavez Silverman, furthered his legacy by starting a scholarship memorial fund "to keep his name in place and to help students who share in his scholarly interests."

Mrs. Silverman wrote letters to friends, colleagues, and former students, soliciting their participation. "We received large contributions as well as small ones," she proudly noted. "One student sent $10 every year until it totaled $100."

To guarantee that awards may be made forever, she established the Joseph H.

Silverman Memorial Fellowship as an endowment. One of the largest individual-based fellowships at UCSC, it provides full-year grants to doctoral students researching Spanish Renaissance (Golden Age) literature. To date, $75,700 has been raised from 129 individuals. Careful investment has grown the fund to a market value of $166,500.

Selected by a panel that included Professor Silverman's daughter Suzanne Chavez Silverman, a Latin American literature scholar, Dabaco is the fellowship's first recipient. A bibliophile studying the Spanish picaresque novel, he shares Professor Silverman's intellectual interests, including a love for teaching.

Dabaco welcomes the financial assistance, having supported himself throughout his college career. "The fellowship has provided me the time I need to dedicate to my studies and get important work done," he appreciatively says.

After all her efforts, Mrs. Silverman is delighted to see the fellowship bear fruit. "It feels wonderful!" she says, smiling.

Attracting the Best

NOT ALL MAJOR CONTRIBUTIONS TO UCSC are financial. In-kind gifts of artwork, manuscripts, and historical artifacts have made University Library Special Collections one of the most respected archives in the nation. This outstanding collection emphasizes the book arts; the inter-relationships among text, image, and object; and archival documentation of nonliterary arts such as music, painting, and photography.

At the heart of Special Collections is the Photography Archive, initiated in the late 1960s with an anonymous gift of Edward Weston's Project Prints, 832 photographs selected by Weston himself to represent the best of his career. Under the expert stewardship of Special Collections head Rita Bottoms and her staff—with assistance from noted photographer Al Weber (see sidebar)—the Photography Archive is expanding rapidly. The collection now includes work from many of the country's most distinguished photographers, listed at right.

Al Weber plays a key role in archive expansion

Rita Bottoms, head of UCSC Special Collections, gives Carmel-based photographer Al Weber much of the credit for building UCSC's Photography Archive to its current stature. Weber is internationally respected for his impressive body of work and for his contributions as a teacher and mentor. His career spans five decades and includes aerial photography, architectural work, and rich images of the American Southwest. Weber's work continues to evolve, and he leads workshops and classes throughout the U.S. and Europe.

Weber's link to Special Collections began in the early 1990s when he rescued the archives of photographer Steve Crouch, whose book Steinbeck Country brought central California landscapes to a national audience. When Crouch died, no provision had been made to preserve his archive, and it was almost carted to the dump. Weber collaborated with Bottoms to place the work in Special Collections, and he has since been instrumental in encouraging many fellow photographers to house their archives there. Says Weber:

"Art is an important form of communication. If work is lost, or locked away where it can't be experienced by new generations, we break an essential historical link. Special Collections at UCSC is one of the few places that provides the preservation and access needed to keep this communication alive. This is something I can do for the history and the future of photography."

Supporting Students in Need

Smith Scholarship grows into support network for students

FERNANDO MEJÍA WAS 17 when an early-morning explosion and fire in his Nicaraguan home orphaned him and burned 85 percent of his body. Mejía says the traumatic event set him on a new path—one leading to America and, eventually, to UC Santa Cruz. “It made me open my eyes and say, ‘I have to make a difference in my life,’” says Mejía, now 26.

While pursuing a bachelor’s degree in computer science at UCSC, Mejía crossed paths with an alumnus who is also committed to making a difference, especially for students like Mejía—orphans, foster children, and wards of the court.

In 1999, alumnus Bill Dickinson (Cowell ’68) created the Page and Eloise Pickard Smith Memorial Scholarship, pledging $100,000 over his lifetime, to honor the founding provost of Cowell College and his wife. A dozen students have each received scholarships ranging from $2,000 to $4,000, and for Mejía, the support made the difference.

“The scholarship gave me the last push I needed to finish my degree,” he says.

To ensure that Smith scholarships and fellowships continue well into the future, Dickinson has recently established a planned gift to UCSC, leaving an apartment building and a stock portfolio to the university. “I’m not rich,” Dickinson says. “But like many people, I own real estate. I see this gift as an enduring tribute to the passionate values of two wonderful people who helped pioneer an exceptional university.”

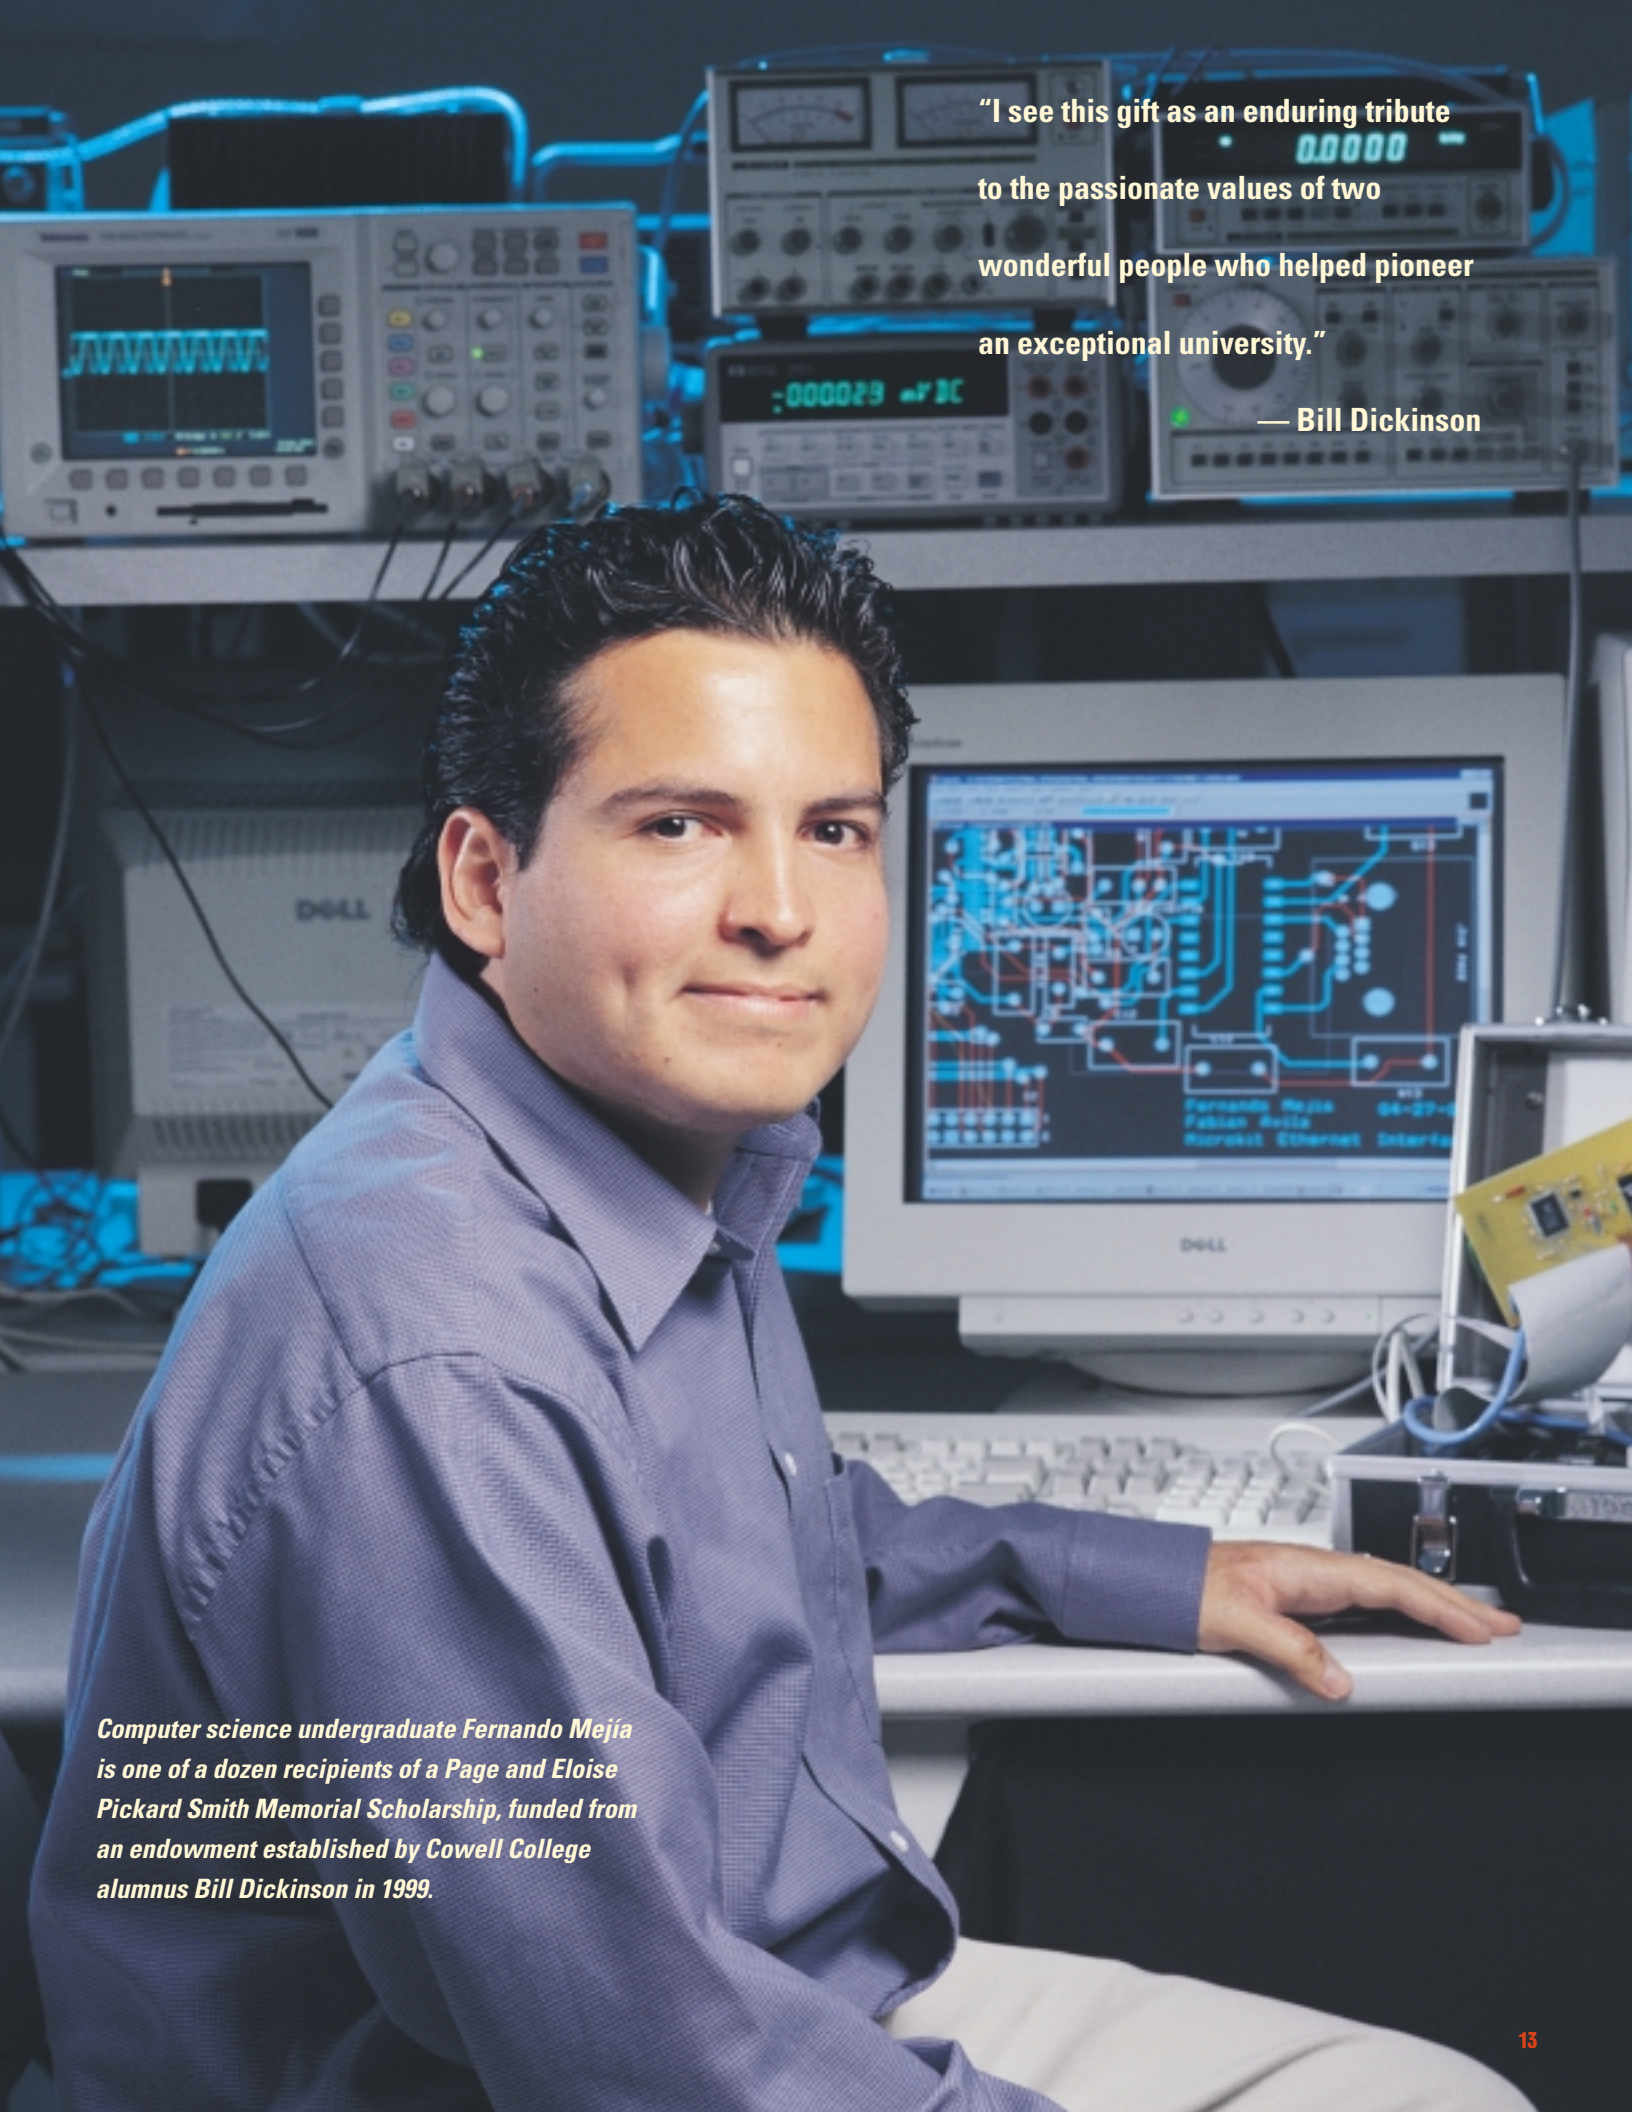

The Smiths gave Dickinson, a former foster child with no home base, a sense of belonging and a daring belief in his own potential—something he is now extending to other students. He has inspired a group of dedicated UCSC alumni, students, and other volunteers to join him in creating the Page and Eloise Smith Scholastic Society. The group provides mentoring as well as monetary support, and is reaching out to younger students in the foster care system to help bring them to higher education.

The Importance of Endowed Chairs

THE ENDOWED or named chair is one of higher education's most enduring traditions, dating back some 500 years to Oxford University. UC Santa Cruz now has 13 endowed chairs, which are essential for attracting top faculty and students and helping the campus sustain its commitment to excellence.

"Several years ago, I was contacted by Dr. Marat Yusupov, a Russian scientist who had obtained the first crystals of the whole ribosome. Yusupov expressed interest in joining my research group, looking to solve the structure of the ribosome by X-ray crystallography. Through normal channels of applying for a grant to support him, we would have waited up to a year for funding, and Yusupov likely would have gone elsewhere. Sinsheimer Chair funds enabled me to immediately guarantee Yusupov the possibility of a position. He ultimately joined our group, and we went on to solve the structure."

One of the campus's earliest endowed chairs, the Robert L. Sinsheimer Chair in Molecular Biology, is held by Professor Harry F. Noller, the world's leading expert on ribosomes.

New Vice Chancellor to Expand Research

ROBERT C. MILLER JR., an internationally respected scientist, educator, and administrator, has been appointed vice chancellor of research. Miller brings to UCSC a proven track record of increasing research activity and funding for two major research powerhouses, the University of British Columbia, and most recently, the University of Washington.

A professor of microbiology at both campuses, he also served as vice president for research and vice provost for intellectual property and technology transfer, respectively.

Miller's research focuses on molecular genetics and nucleic acids. He holds five U.S. patents based on his findings. Miller's experience and background will be key to expanding research excellence at UCSC in the 21st century.

Physical Sciences Globally Recognized

EXCELLENCE FEELS EVEN BETTER when an outsider says you're one of the best. Studies of research universities and institutions published in Britain's newspaper the Guardian ranked UCSC's physical sciences research as the second most influential in the world.

This ranking indicates that UCSC researchers excel in making important discoveries in chemistry, engineering, geosciences, mathematics, and physics. Their findings are taken seriously and incorporated into the work of others. Data for the rankings came from the Institute for Scientific Information (ISI), a leading provider of information to researchers.

The university's strength was measured by ISI databases that tracked how often an institution's research findings were referred to in scholarly publications from 1994 to 1998. To lay the foundation for their own publications, researchers must acknowledge and cite previous works that contribute to their findings. Calculating the average citations per paper ("citation impact") is an objective way of determining both the substance and productivity of an institution's research efforts.

During the five-year period, UCSC researchers authored 1,320 journal articles that were cited 14,678 times in other publications, an average of over 11 times each. Only Scripps Research Institute in La Jolla, California, bested UCSC's performance with a higher citation impact. Rockefeller, Harvard, and Brandeis Universities placed behind UCSC in the top five.

"While some may find our ranking of number two in the world for our physical sciences impact surprising, it is consistent with similar rankings we have received for many years," said David Kliger, dean of natural sciences.

Indeed, since 1980, ISI studies have ranked UCSC in the top 10 nationwide. Now, the caliber of UCSC's physical sciences research is globally recognized.

W. M. Keck Foundation Awards $1 Million Grant

UCSC FACULTY, researchers, and students investigating the effects of trace metals in the environment and biological systems got a $1 million boost from the W. M. Keck Foundation of Los Angeles. The grant will be used to purchase state-of-the-art equipment and develop a facility for examining the interactions of metals and proteins.

For years UCSC scientists have pioneered research in this area of environmental toxicology. Their contributions include developing and refining standard procedures for measuring lead and other toxic metals in water, which impact the health of infants and children. This grant helps UCSC to continue working at the leading edge of scientific inquiry and discovery.

Annual Giving Sparks Physics/Mathematics Library Endowment

JEFF SKALA (Crown '85) and Meredith Smith (College Eight '00) have never actually met—but the UCSC experience connects them in a way that has enriched their lives and benefited the entire campus.

In 1996, Smith was a UCSC

freshman working for the Telephone Outreach Program (TOP), contacting parents and alumni about opportunities to support the campus. One of the alumni she called was Jeff Skala, now a computer programmer in Boulder, Colorado, and the two immediately hit it off. Smith and Skala have stayed in touch over the years. She keeps him posted on UCSC events, and he has become a mentor, helping her with educational and career advice.

Through TOP, Skala has contributed regularly to a wide range of campus programs, including the University Library's Buy-A-Book program, a gift he dedicated in part to Meredith Smith.

This year, Skala made a very special contribution, establishing a University Library subject endowment in honor of his grandmother. The Virginia McAfee Physics/Mathematics

Endowment supports library collections in physics and mathematics, the two fields of Jeff's challenging double major. Virginia McAfee graduated in 1929 from the University of Michigan with a degree in library science. She worked for five years in the Detroit Public Library system and was a strong supporter of community libraries throughout her life. Skala says that the endowment, funded with an inheritance from his grandmother, is the ideal tribute:

"My grandmother was dedicated to libraries—and she also truly appreciated the sense of community that is so much a part of UCSC. This is the kind of gift she would have made herself—and it's also a way for me to thank the UCSC campus for the wonderful undergraduate education it provided."

Reunion Giving—A Strong Tradition

THE APRIL 2001 Banana Slug Spring Fair hosted a record number of alumni reunions, bringing together the classes of 1971, 1976, 1981, 1986, 1991, and 1996. Alumni surpassed last year's reunion giving total, presenting Chancellor M.R.C. Greenwood with a check for $133,766 at this year's All-Alumni Reunion Luncheon. A large portion of the gift went to the Alumni Scholarship Fund which, thanks to generous support from alumni and others, will begin offering multi-year scholarships starting in 2001–02.

Other special events at this year's Banana Slug Spring Fair included the 35th anniversary of Stevenson College, the 30th anniversary of Kresge College, and celebrations for the Latino Alumni Network; the Gay, Lesbian, Bisexual, Transgender (GLBT) Resource Center; Black Escargot (UCSC's African American alumni affinity group); the Economics Department; and the Community Studies Department.

For information about reunion giving or to get involved in next year's reunion activities, visit alumni.ucsc.edu.

CHANCELLOR RECOGNIZES UCSC SUPPORTERS In May 2001, Chancellor M.R.C. Greenwood thanked close to 150 of UCSC's most enthusiastic and dedicated supporters at a festive University House reception. This annual event honors leading campus volunteers; donors of $1,000 or more; and those who have included UCSC in their estate plans. This year's guests were entertained by the student jazz ensemble Pacific Standard Time.

Parent Gifts Boost Student Programs

THE PARENTS of UCSC's students are among the campus's biggest fans. This year, parent contributions were up by 19 percent, totaling more than $537,000. Because parents traditionally support programs that directly benefit students, their generosity is very important to continuing and expanding the rich UCSC undergraduate experience.

Annual Giving Opportunities

THE ANNUAL GIVING Program provides a wealth of opportunities to support UCSC. Unrestricted gifts enable the campus to meet its most pressing needs. You can also designate contributions for the following:

- ▶ Chancellor's Fund—support for student programs
- ▶ Colleges—support for a specific college
- ▶ Scholarships—support for students with financial need
- ▶ Student Affairs—support for student organizations
- ▶ University Library—including the Buy-A-Book campaign
- ▶ Academic Divisions—Arts, Humanities, Natural Sciences, and Social Sciences Divisions, and the Jack Baskin School of Engineering

Many donors take advantage of giveto.ucsc.edu, which provides a secure online option for contributing, as well as complete information on giving opportunities.

Trustee Profiles

"I believe there's no better way to be involved in the future of both young people and the Santa Cruz community than serving on the Foundation Board."

David Regan

David Regan, publisher of the Santa Cruz Sentinel newspaper, began a two-year term as president of the UC Santa Cruz Foundation Board in July. Regan has provided strong leadership in establishing the Karl S. Pister Leadership Opportunity Awards Program that provides $20,000 scholarships to selected community college students who continue their education at UCSC, and fundraising for the Seymour Marine Discovery Center at Long Marine Laboratory and the Center for Ocean Health. He is involved in numerous community organizations and serves on the board of the Delta School, a charter school that started on the UCSC campus.

"It is gratifying to me to see that even with the growth of the campus since I was a student, UCSC has retained its commitment to excellence in undergraduate education and research."

Kenneth Feingold

Kenneth Feingold, vice president of the Foundation Board as of July 1, is the first UCSC graduate (Cowell '71) to serve as an officer of the Foundation. In past years he has served as parliamentarian and committee chair of the Audit and Finance Committees. A Los Angeles attorney specializing in commercial and civil disputes, Feingold boasts a number of ties to UCSC—his wife, brother, and sister-in-law are all alumni. He and his wife, Moira (Cowell '72), are currently developing an endowed scholarship fund for Santa Monica High School students who enroll at UCSC.

"As chair of the Finance Committee, I hope to help the Foundation balance immediate need for income with pressure to grow the income stream to meet future needs."

Arthur French

UCSC alumnus Arthur French (Stevenson '74) of Montara, California, has taken on the important role of Finance Committee chair for the UCSC Foundation this year. He has served on the Finance Committee since joining the Foundation in 1998. President and chief investment officer of Pillar Point Equity Management, LLC, French brings 25 years of investment experience to his new role on the Foundation Board. His career includes positions with Citicorp Investment Management, Loomis Sayles & Company, and First Interstate Bank.

"I serve on the Foundation Board because it supports my goal to try to do some good in the world and make a difference in people's lives."

Margaret Giberson

Margaret Lyons Giberson of Los Gatos and Carmel Valley will chair the Nominating Committee this year for the Foundation Board. Since earning her law degree, Giberson has been working on projects to promote environmentally and socially responsible decisions by local and state agencies. In 1995, Giberson and her husband, Alan, established the Pepper-Giberson Endowed Chair in Environmental Studies, which honors Professor Emeritus James Pepper, who mentored the Gibersons' son, Erik (College Eight '94). A longtime volunteer in the public schools, Giberson has also served on the boards of directors of a number of organizations dedicated to environmental conservation and education.

Thank you!

THREE TRUSTEES have stepped down this year, John Arriaga, Richard Crowell, and Toni Landels Hyman, and we wish to thank them for their accomplishments and service on the Foundation Board. A member of the UCSC Alumni Council, Arriaga (Stevenson '76) applied his extensive experience as a legislative advocate during the annual UC

Legislative Day in Sacramento; Crowell (Cowell '77) supported student scholarships through the UCSC Alumni Association Scholarship Fund and the Karl S. Pister Leadership Opportunity Awards Program; and Hyman lent support to the UC Reserve System and the campaign to build UCSC's new Music Center.

In Memoriam

Ethel Hammond Curtis

THE CAMPUS COMMUNITY was greatly saddened by the death of Ethel Hammond Curtis in December 2000 at the age of 95. Ethel Curtis was dedicated to education, and her memory lives on in the innovative UCSC programs she supported. Her support culminated in several special gifts honoring the memory of her beloved niece, Sally Jane Hammond (the daughter of campus supporters Jim and Barbara Hammond). Sally Hammond was born with a defective heart, and passed away at the age of 46.

The Sally J. Hammond Leadership Opportunity Award assists promising community college transfer students at UCSC. In recognition of Sally's strong commitment to the UCSC Library, the Ethel Hammond Curtis Fund supports the Friends of the UCSC Library's annual Book Collection Contest and other Friends activities.

Ethel Curtis graduated from UC San Francisco and the University of Chicago and taught public health at UC Berkeley. Her service in the World War II Army Nurse Corps earned her the University of Liege Medal and the U.S. Army's Bronze Star.

Persis (Perky) Horner Hyde

IN JUNE 2001, the UCSC community and all of Santa Cruz County mourned the loss of Persis (Perky) Hyde, one of the region's most valued leaders. Perky Hyde, 76, was a dedicated member of the UCSC family. With her husband Harold (Hal) Hyde

(UCSC vice chancellor emeritus and a trustee of the UC Santa Cruz Foundation), she supported a wide range of campus programs, including the University Library, the UCSC Arboretum, the Music Center, the Center for Justice, Tolerance, and Community, the University Center, and student scholarships.

Perky Hyde was born in San Francisco and graduated from UC Berkeley in 1945. Throughout her life, she was committed to community service, and her warmth and caring touched many lives. The many nonprofit, church, and civic organizations with which she served included the Cabrillo College Foundation, Santa Cruz County Symphony Guild, Pajaro Valley Arts Council, the YWCA of Watsonville, Omega Nu, and the American Association of University Women. Her work focused especially on improving opportunities for women and children in the Pajaro Valley and throughout Santa Cruz County. Perky Hyde was named "Woman of the Year" by the Watsonville Chamber of Commerce in 1977 and was also recognized in 2000 by the Watsonville Soroptimist club and the United Methodist Church.

Zoe Ann Orr Marcus

ZOE ANN ORR MARCUS, a longtime friend of UC Santa Cruz and former trustee of the UCSC Foundation, died in September 2000 at the age of 86. Zoe Ann Marcus was well known for her volunteer work throughout Santa Cruz County. Her lifelong interest in marine biology led to her strong support for UCSC's Joseph M. Long Marine Laboratory (LML), and she contributed generously to the recently established Seymour Marine Discovery Center at LML. She also provided support for Shakespeare Santa Cruz, the UC Santa Cruz Foundation Chair in Psychology, and the UCSC Arboretum.

Marcus graduated from Stanford University and earned a master's degree from Hopkins Marine Station.

She was active with the County Symphony, American Association of University Women, Cabrillo Foundation, Community Foundation, and All Saints Episcopal Church in Watsonville. Both UC Santa Cruz and the county Board of Supervisors honored her for her volunteer work.

Michael F. Crocker

MICHAEL CROCKER, a UC Santa Cruz Foundation board member since June 2000, died in March 2001 at the age of 59. Before moving to Santa Cruz, Crocker lived in Colombia, Chile, and Venezuela where he ran businesses specializing in programs for multinational companies. He was instrumental in founding several companies in Colombia in the fields of security, risk management, and insurance.

While in South America, Crocker was a member of the Chilean-American and British-American Chambers of Commerce. He served both as U.S. ambassador to Chile's Trade Development Committee and as British ambassador to Colombia's Business Advisory Committee.

Giving to UC Santa Cruz

This annual report features some of the ways UCSC supporters have chosen to give to the campus in support of their favorite programs. The UC Santa Cruz Foundation welcomes outright gifts of cash, securities, and property. Gifts may also be pledged, with payment extended over time.

We also offer a variety of deferred giving options, including charitable remainder trusts, life insurance gifts, and bequests. The UC Santa Cruz Foundation has tax-exempt status granted under Section 501(c)(3) of the federal Internal Revenue Code, and all contributions to the Foundation are tax deductible to the extent allowed by law.

Donors to UCSC are invited to direct their gifts to one or more programs of special interest to them, such as a college, academic department, scholarship fund, or specific area of research. Many donors also choose to make unrestricted gifts, enabling the campus to direct resources where they are needed most. Other opportunities to contribute to UCSC include:

- ▶ Annual giving, providing current operating support for a wide range of campus programs;
- ▶ Endowment gifts, providing support in perpetuity. These include program endowments, endowed chairs, scholarship endowments, and library subject endowments;

- ▶ Special campaigns, such as capital, endowment, and matching; and
- ▶ Honorary and memorial giving.
